

MARYLAND INSTITUTE FOR TECHNOLOGY IN THE HUMANITIES

Winnemore Dissertation Fellowship Application, Spring 2011

This one-semester fellowship is intended for students whose dissertation engages the intersections between new media and the traditional concerns of the Humanities. If you receive this fellowship, you are agreeing not to accept any other form of financial support from the University or other fellowships of $2,000 or more during the term for which this fellowship is awarded.

The fellowship stipend is $9,570, will provide a stipend of $9,570, plus full benefits and tuition remission up to five credits. Beyond this application, candidates must provide a 500-1000 word abstract written for a general audience; a statement of work completed to date, work remaining, and expected completion date; a curriculum vitae; and two confidential letters of recommendation, one of which must be from the student's dissertation director.

MITH must receive the candidate's completed application by noon, Monday, December 6, 2010.
